

WILSON'S NOTE TO BRITAIN PLEASES INDIANA LEADERS

Republicans and Democrats
Both Agree That It Increases
Strength—Other Political "Dope."

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—(Special).—In the opinion of leading politicians both republicans and democrats in Indianapolis, Woodrow Wilson's note to Great Britain, showing that the United States will remain neutral and will proceed to drastic measures only if necessary to enforce her demands for the rights of her citizens abroad, at all costs, have had a wide effect in the national political situation. Fears expressed here two weeks ago that Wilson was alienating the affections of the larger proportion of German citizens with his submarine warfare demands on the Fatherland, seem to be completely allayed. The most ferocious of the pro-German sympathizers seem to agree now that Wilson simply is standing for the neutrality of this nation and the protection of the rights of American citizens, be they assailed by any nation. That the Mexican situation also is about to be straightened out, at least temporarily, also is believed here. That the Wilson note and same policies with regard to America's defense program also is being well received is asserted by those who watch the trends of national politics. There are many angles to the political situation here just now.

Republicans in Quandary.
Chiefest among them, perhaps, is the growing unrest of those, who were bull moosers and who do not know where they stand. Roosevelt's announcement that he will stay in the party, from New York, has lent much color to the suggestions here that Albert J. Beveridge is grooming himself for the race either for senator or governor for no other purpose than to defeat any candidate which the old line republican organization may put in the field. Democrats believe that the Wilson-Keating-Heneway crowd of republicans in Indiana is to rule in the G. O. P. again. If that is so, it will mean that Beveridge enters the race again, even in the face of certain defeat. Meanwhile, a democratic handwagon, on which most of the elements of the party seem to be climbing, goes rolling serenely on.

The announcement that Bernard Korbly probably will be elected state chairman again is taken to mean that there will be no fight in Indiana this year on the so-called organization. Korbly's re-election now seems certain and therefore it is probable that the talk about William H. Vollmer, former state treasurer, for the party leadership, will be heard no more. If the primary were to be held today, it probably would mean that Korbly would be the choice of the district chairmen elected "hands down."

What changes may come before the primary, however, are uncertain.

O'Brien and Goodrich.
And so it seems that if the primaries were held today, William H. O'Brien would be nominated for governor on the democratic ticket and James P. Goodrich would be nominated on the republican ticket. But, with the primaries six months away, many things may happen to change results.

Just now there is a dearth of democratic candidates for offices, but, meanwhile, the republicans, armed with the belief that Woodrow Wilson will not be strong enough to carry democracy through in 1916 a winner in a state like Indiana, have oodles and oodles of candidates for the state offices. Here is a partial list of them at this time:

United States senator—Walter Olds, Fort Wayne; Hugh Th. Miller, Columbus; Arthur R. Robinson, Indian-

Lieutenant-governor—Edgar D. Bush, Salem; T. Moore, Greencastle; John M. Lewis, Seymour; William M. White, Crawfordsville. Secretary of state—Ed Jackson, Newcastles; and Eben H. Wolcott, Indianapolis. Treasurer of state—Job Freeman, Terre Haute; Uz McMurtrie, Marion; Charles W. Lanz, Bedford.

Auditor of state—J. Newt Brown, Franklin; Otto Klaus, Evansville. Superintendent of public instruction—L. N. Hines, Crawfordsville; Horace Ellis, Vincennes; H. B. Brown, Lebanon; F. F. Heighway, Crown Point.

Reporter of the supreme court—Will H. Adams, Wabash; Warwick H. Ripley, Indianapolis. Attorney-general—Eli Stansbury, Williamsport; E. V. Harris, Fort Wayne.

State statistician—H. A. Roberts, Carmel; A. T. Claypool, Veedersburg. Judge of the supreme court—Lawson M. Harvey, Indianapolis; Louis B. Ewbank, Indianapolis; James M. Leathers, Indianapolis; Oscar H. Montgomery, Seymour.

Dailey May Loom Up.
There will be mighty few candidates for place on the democratic state ticket, except those that now hold the places, it appears, according to "dope" that is available now. The office of Charles A. Greathouse probably will be a bone of contention, since Mr. Greathouse has announced he will not take the nomination again. T. F. Fitzgibbon of Columbus, Sam Scott of Jeffersonville, and others will probably enter the race. The governorship contest, unless great latent strength develops against it, will be a close one. There are many leaders here who say that "S. Dist. Atty. Frank C. Dailey probably will be the 'dark horse' to step in if O'Brien steps out. Dailey will not make a formal announcement, it is said, but would not "thrice refuse" the crown, were it offered him. And his friends say he could make it mighty hot for Billy O'Brien if he decided to make a campaign for the nomination.

There seems to be another effort on here to purchase one of the big newspaper holdings in Indianapolis to be operated as a democratic state newspaper. The newspaper operated here by George M. Ray is being credited by the republicans with being the democratic official organ in Indiana. They point to the fact that Bernard Korbly, chairman, and many of the new members of the democratic state committee through Ray's paper. This is derided by leaders here, who say that Ray is discredited by even the leaders, on who attempt to make his paper the official democratic paper would be laughed at out in the state.

The appointment by Korbly of the new members of the state committee was made late this week and the effect in some of the districts remains problematical. In the third district he named Bomar Traylor of Jasper, formerly a state senator, and author of the famous "press-muzzling" amendment to the corrupt practices act—which never has been used in Indiana—to succeed Mark Storen. It is understood most of the new appointments were made on the recommendation of the outgoing committee members. In the fifth district the appointment is pleasing to all, apparently. Arthur Hamrick of Greencastle, clerk of the last house of representatives, was named to succeed James L. Randel of Greencastle, in this district. In the ninth district, William Riley Dunham of Kempton was appointed to succeed William E. Longley of Noblesville, state fire marshal. In the 11th district, Korbly named Frank Butler of Peru, to succeed E. E. Cox, recently appointed postmaster at Hartford City. In the 13th district, Rudolph Ackerly, county chairman of St. Joseph county, was named to succeed Dan M. Bechtel of Goshen. An appointee to succeed Charles J. Murphy of Brookston, in the 10th district, yet is to be named. It may be Ed Honan of Rensselaer, but probably will go to another part of the district.

PRINCESS MARY IS ARRESTED AS A SPY

Sister of Prince of Wales Has Narrow Escape From Being Shot.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A member of the British royal family, thanks to the efficient espionage of the allies at the front, has been arrested charged with being a German spy. For four hours Princess Marc was held under guard, while officers investigated her claims to royal privileges.

Having gone on an incognito visit to the hospitals at the front, Princess Mary, accompanied by Miss Dunsau, started to meet her brother, the prince of Wales, at the British headquarters. When about six miles from the village her car was halted by a French patrol. Unluckily the occupants had forgotten their passports. The patrol failed to recognize royally.

Leaving the car with its occupants under the guard of two French soldiers and with the assurance that they would be shot at 6 o'clock in the evening, the corporal went in search of the officer in command of the outpost. Not until four hours later did the officer return. The identity of the prisoners was then discovered.

THE AUDITORIUM

Tom Moore and Marguerite Courtot, two of Kalem's most popular stars are appearing today in a two act comedy entitled "In Double Harness." Other pictures are Charley Chaplin in "His Musical Career," the regular episode of the popular "The Diamond From the Sky" featuring Lottie Pickford and "His Regular Lesson" a Biograph drama telling the story of Smith, who, after the wane of the honeymoon, took to going out nights. Returning from the club he saw a man apparently leaving his home, and unaware that the convivial stranger had merely mistaken the house, induced in suspicion which were heightened when he found on the mantel a half smoked cigar left by his bride's father that evening. Mrs. Smith tearfully denied his charges and he became more than ever convinced of her faith in him. He resolved to watch the following night. Leaving the house he waited down the street and presently saw a man approaching the place and enter by way of a French window. He decided to catch his erring wife, he rushed in and found her alone. Her indignant denials he brushed aside and started looking for the man whom he found in the closet. He turned out to be a gentleman burglar. Tomorrow, the clever player Clara Kimball Young will be seen in a five part comedy entitled "Marrying for Money." The story relates how a girl is attracted by her family to marry a rich Count who, however turns out to be the possessor of nothing more valuable than his title. Marrying to order is not really the girl's own conception of her mission in life, and she falls in love with a young fellow, Ted, who hasn't a cent to his name. The young couple are perfectly happy with each other, however, and an agreeable surprise awaits them in the news that after all Ted comes into a rich inheritance. "The Fable of the Home Treatment and the Sure Cure" by George Ade, is also on tomorrow's bill.

AT THE LASALLE

Beginning at 12 o'clock today the LaSalle will open the doors to the general public for the first performance in South Bend of the film classic and greatly discussed "Hypocrites." At an earlier hour a special and private performance will be given for the benefit of Mayor Keller, the censor board and a specially invited audience of representative South Bend people, who will pass on the merits of the picture. A special organ rehearsal will take place, appropriate stage decorations will add to the effect of the picture and the introduction of a classic singer will create the proper atmosphere.

"Hypocrites" is a four-reel film, written by Lois Weber, and produced under her personal direction. It is one of the most extraordinary pictures ever placed before the public. By means of an absorbing story and superb allegory, it lays mercilessly those people who, faulty and evil themselves, yet dare to condemn the seeker after truth. The play is a daring one in its frankness, but has been handled by Miss Weber with the most exquisite delicacy, so that it is entirely without offense to the most critical.

The picture will be shown at the LaSalle for three days and prices will be advanced during this engagement.

AT THE INDIANA

The feature picture at the Indiana today will introduce to the patrons of this theater Francis X. Bushman, one of the most popular film favorites in "The Plum Tree." In the romantic drama taken from a story which appeared in one of the leading magazines, the country, Mr. Bushman has a part which gives him wonderful opportunities as a screen star. An ideal supporting company and a splendid scenic production makes this a photo class photo play. On the same bill will be seen another favorite in Edith Story, noted for a number of delightful impersonations of leading roles. She appears today in "Jane Wrenworth," a three-reel Vitagraph comedy-drama and the most pleasing one.

Tuesday's bill includes "The Fortunes of Marianna," with Lamar Johnstone and Stella Razetto, "A Safe Investment," with Billie Reeves, the clever English music hall comedian; "The Man Who Found Out," with Beverly Bayne and Sidney Ainsworth and a western drama, "To the Death."

NOTHING TO HAPPEN SAYS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

U. S. Body Issues Memorandum Noting Improvement in Finance and Crops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—A general improvement in business conditions and the disposition of the feeling that "something is going to happen," is reported by the chamber of commerce of the United States in making public Sunday a memorandum on crops, finances and industrial activities prepared by its committee on statistics and standards.

"Confidence in the future," says the report, "has grown apace with the steady progress of the crops and now slow but continual improvement in industrial affairs."

"Economics in the south and reduce acreage have put that section in a better position regarding the cotton crop, even if the price remains low."

"Excessive rains are reported in nearly all sections, but the benefits have exceeded the damage. The probable wheat yield is estimated at 948,500,000 bushels."

"There probably will be a record-breaking oat crop. The oat crop is in good shape. The reduction in acreage is estimated at 16 per cent. A yield of 12,000,000 bushels exclusive of probably 600,000 bushels of lint is expected."

PREPARING ADDRESS.

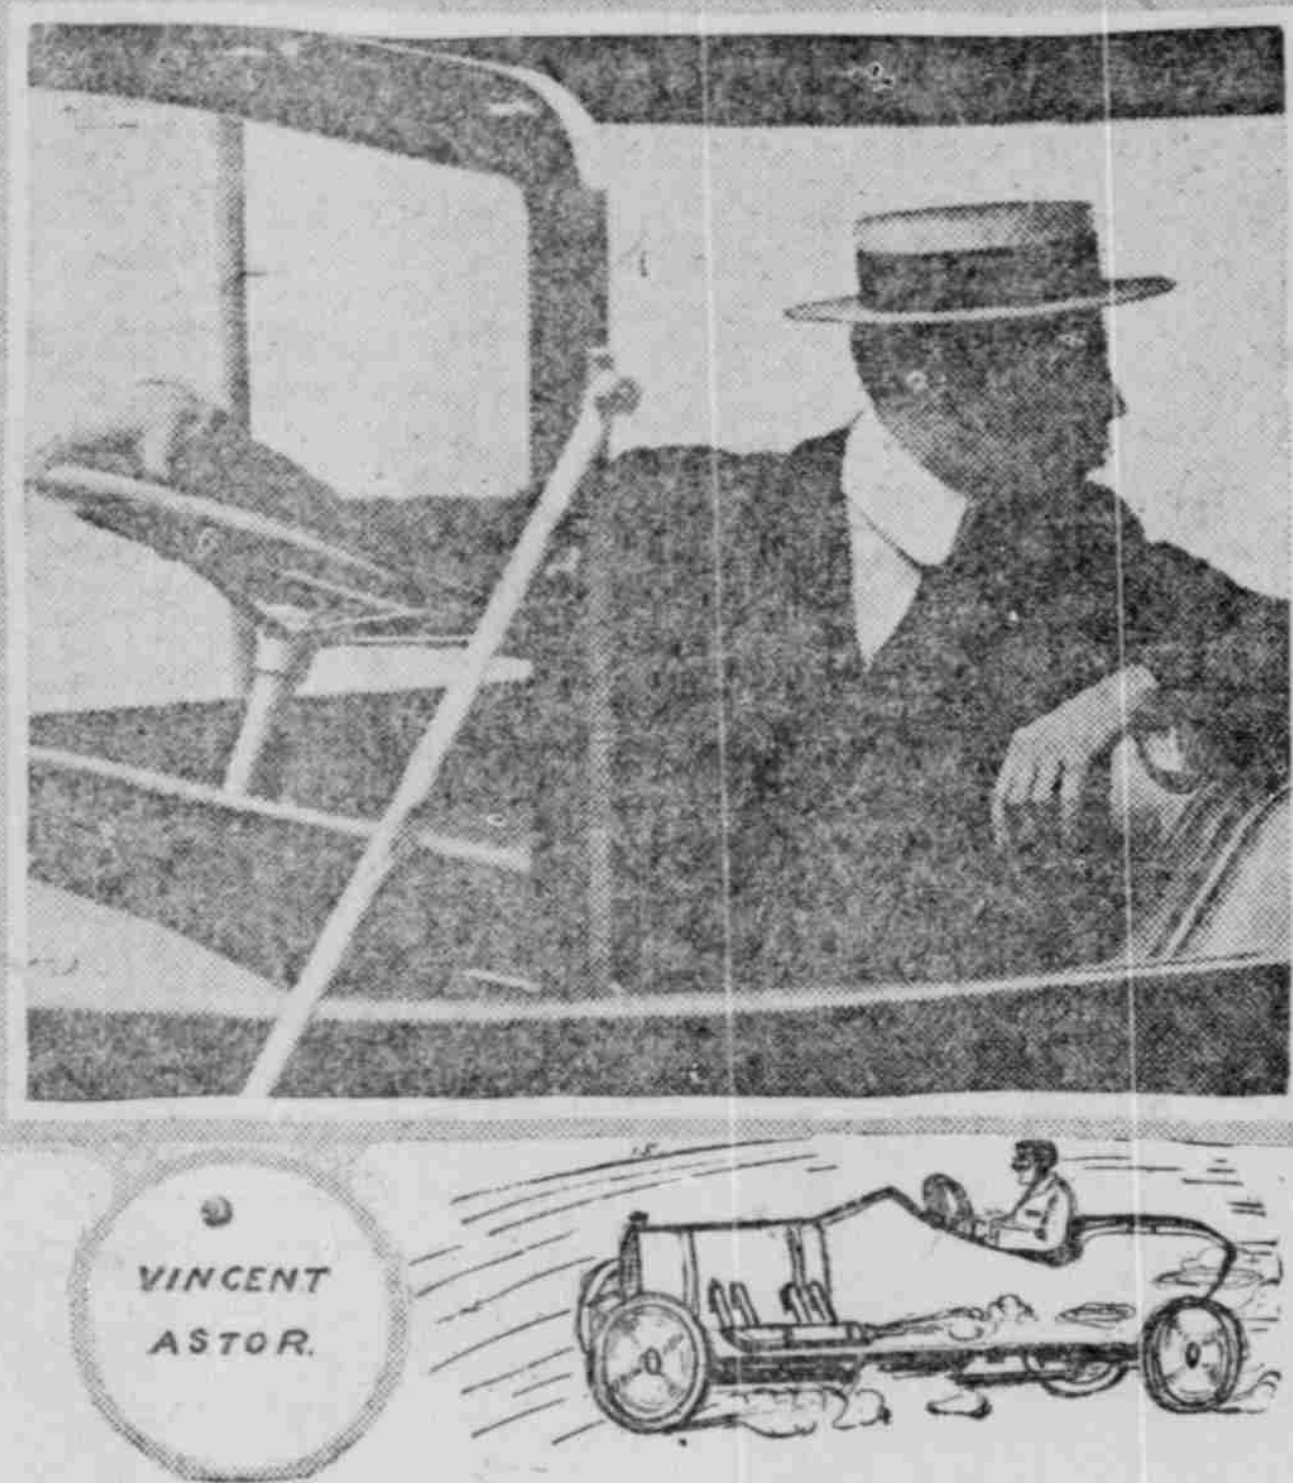

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 9.—First Chief Carranza is preparing an address to the American people in which he will make public many facts not known in the United States. This document will be made public this week.

The constitutionalists are positive that there will be no armed intervention at this late hour, especially in view of the fact that the end of fighting in Mexico is apparently at hand.

ELECTION THURSDAY.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 9.—The chamber Saturday night was threatened by the Cacos and was afraid to proceed with an election, postponing action until Thursday.

Vincent Astor After Speed

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—It is announced here that Vincent Astor is negotiating for the purchase of a racing automobile, which he will enter in the first race at the new Sheepshead bay motorrome on Oct. 1. Mr. Astor already owns a speed boat and a hydro-aeroplane, and the announcement that he is going to enter the auto racing game is not a surprise to his friends. It is barely possible that Mr. Astor will drive the racing machine himself, although when questioned he remarked, "I do not want it said that I am going to drive a racing machine just now."
